ONE MAN DROWNS HERE; TWO BOYS IN TURTLE CREEK TRAGEDY

FARM YOUTH, 18, DIES IN RIVER AT GOOSE ISLAND

HEART FAILURE BELIEVED CAUSE OF DEATH OF GEORGE BIER.

CHILDREN DROWN

Boy 11, and Girl 8, Drowned While Wading Near Beloit.

George Dohs-Bier, 18, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Bier, town of Harmony, met death while swimming and diving for clams at Goose Island bathing beach here shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Death was due to heart failure, it is believed, not by drowning as was at first supposed.

The youth had been in the water for several hours, having spent most of the time gathering clams in which he had hoped to find pearls. He had picked up more than a bushel.

Made No Cry for Help.

Fellow swimmers at the beach were not alarmed when they saw him come to the surface and go down three times—they thought he was going down for clams. He did not yell although the wading of one arm indicated he was calling for help, they say. One boy said he came to the surface seven times.

He had been under water several minutes before drowning was feared. Swimmers began diving for the body and Bert Bailey recovered it

LIFE GUARDS AT BEACHES.

Numerous complaints have come to the Gazette office about the lack of guards at the beaches on Lake Monona. For the past week the number of people who have taken advantage of the river has been about as large as is usual in the middle of the summer. There have been no guards. It would seem that a policeman should be assigned to these swimming places at least. There was not even a barrel to roll a man on Sunday and the life guards are not at all available.

about five minutes later. It was dragged to shore and first aid was given. The police and fire department were notified.

Little Water in Lungs.

Dr. P. B. Farnsworth and Bremen with the lungs worked on young Bier for more than half an hour in a vain attempt to resuscitate him. Little water came from his lungs. The other indications led Dr. Farnsworth to the belief that heart failure was the cause of his death.

The body was removed by County Coroner Lynn A. Whaley's men, assisted by police, and was later taken to the undertaker's establishment of Edward McGue, 128 Corn Exchange.

Funeral Tuesday.

The funeral will be held at the home in the town of Harmony, Tuesday morning, at 9 a. m. from St. Mary's church here. Burial will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Young Bier had gone to the beach in his car accompanied by his cousin, Raymond Dohs, 11 years old, 212 Lin street. He had been in the water since 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. It was said, Young Bier was adopted by the Bier family when he was about 5 years old and grew up on their farm at Goose Island.

Wife Admits Fake Robbery Caused Husband to Kill

Mrs. Edith Foran and her husband, Thomas Foran.

Milwaukee.—Thomas Foran and his wife Edith are under charges of first degree murder in connection with the death of Joseph Warner, June 11.

Mrs. Foran is said to have broken down and confessed that a fake robbery arranged by her husband to cover up the expenditure of $100 for clothes was responsible for the death of Warner, construction engineer and innocent victim of the scheme. She then told in detail how she had planned the robbery with extreme care that it might appear, not only to her husband but to the police, that some one had actually "limited" his way in. With a view to impress her husband with the truth of the story, she screamed that there was "a face at the window."

Foran, she says, hearing her cries, dashed out of the house and accused Warner, who was going by on his way home. She says Warner was not even near the house when she screamed.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE MILK PRODUCERS

Wisconsin Federation Will be Formed at Madison Meet This Week.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison.—Plans to give the farmers of Wisconsin control of milk and dairy products will be considered at a conference, June 22 and 23, between representatives of the Wisconsin Society of Equity and Charles W. Holman, acting secretary of the National Milk Producers' federation, who arrived in Madison Monday.

Credentials from more than 50 counties have been received by E. C. Pommerening, president of the Wisconsin State Union, and more are expected. A Wisconsin milk producers' federation will be organized, according to Mr. Pommerening. Eastern milk producers are better organized than the western, Pommerening said, and it is the object of Wisconsin farmers to cooperate with the producers from the east to improve conditions in all dairy farming regions of the country.

GREEKS ADVISED TO QUIT ATTACKS ON NATIONALISTS

ALLIED NOTE TO CONSTANTINE URGES MEDIATION.

ASK WITHDRAWAL Restoration of Turkish Rule Over Smyrna, Plan of Great Britain.

Paris.—Offensive operations against the Turkish nationalists in Asia Minor are opposed by Great Britain, France and Italy, which have dispatched a note to the Greek government asking that King Constantine postpone his campaign against the Turks and accept mediation which may settle the Near East situation.

The note was sent to Smyrna, where King Constantine is at present, and it is believed the Greek government will make an immediate reply. Should this be favorable, overtures to the Turkish nationalists will follow.

It is understood the British stand for the withdrawal of Greek troops from Smyrna and the restoration of Turkish sovereignty over that district. Racial and religious minorities would receive protection from an international police force, under the London plan. An urgent request that the Greek government should postpone the restoration of Turkish rule has been postponed pending the Greek reply to the allied offer of mediation.

Allied high commissioners in Silesia have been asked for a unanimous report relative to the frontier to be established between Poland and Germany in the plebiscite area there. Should the commissioners be unable to agree experts will be sent to adjust the situation and both the Poles and Germans will be forced to accept the allied decision, which will be based on reports submitted by the experts.

HOPE FOR RAIN TO COOL HEATED CITY

Monday Continues Heat of Last Few Days With Little Relief.

Following a blazing hot Sunday that sent city inhabitants in droves to the rivers, lakes and country, the drop in the mercury today, Monday, could find Old Sol's rays again beat down on the wilting populace Monday. Save for a brief time in the morning, when there was a day's drop, the mercury shot up four points in six hours. The only hope held out by the weather "man" is "probable showers," with the temperature due to hang around the middle 80s.

The first relief in several days came Saturday and Sunday nights, which turned cool toward morning. Light breezes played a teasing tune Monday. Prostrations were reported since Saturday. Hundreds sought refuge along the river banks, Crystal Springs or along the high bluffs on the west shore of Rock river. Turtle Creek, near Carver's rock, was popular. Beaches on Lakes Koshkonong, Ripley, Rice, Delavan and Geneva were crowded. A new park, Sugar creek, half way between Broadhead and Juda, catered to more than 2,000 persons, three-quarters of them farmers, Saturday night, with an equal crowd Sunday.

Wednesday will be the first official day of summer and incidentally the longest day of the year, according to the weather department. The sun will travel 15 hours and 21 minutes between the time of rising and setting. The shortest day of the year will be Dec. 22, which will be the first day of next winter. On Sept. 22, the day and night will be equal.

ELBOW SLEEVES! ZION IS SHAKEN TO FOUNDATION

Zion City.—Mrs. Sarah Johnson, 21, of Winthrop Harbor, two miles north of Zion City, is in the Zion jail charged with fracturing Wilbur Glenn Voliva's modest dress ordinance by throwing a blouse against him.

Chief Becker made the arrest after the young woman told him that "whenever you pay for my clothes you can tell me what to wear." Her

U. S. FARM EXPORT BODY ADVOCATED

Passage of Norris Bill Extremely Urgent, Committee Is Told.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington.—The Norris bill to create a federal farm export corporation with a capital of $100,000,000, to finance movement of farm products to Europe was endorsed by the Senate committee on agriculture under the Wilson administration. He declared agriculture in the United States has a surplus of products because of the falling off of farm exports to European nations.

Passage of the bill is a "matter of extreme urgency," Mr. Froman said, adding that "tremendous financial smash is impending" because "carriers of corn, cotton and wool are the greatest ever seen."

Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, agreed that "two are in a crisis with 5,000,000 idle and the situation can't be borne much longer."

Dean J. F. Ryan, Janesville, when informed of the appointment, expressed his pleasure, being a personal friend of Monsignor Muldoon. "He did much during the war and has been active in up-to-date affairs since then and it is doubtless through his war work and as a result of his trip to Rome last December that the appointment was given to him."

"It is an honorary degree, there being no work connected with it here. If he was in Rome he could be in the presence of the Pope on special occasions. Other priests cannot."

Pieces of Eight! Piratski! Helpovitch! Hatteras Folk Shiver With Brand New Fear

Washington.—Visions of holshavik pirate crews, sailing Cape Hatteras waters in head swabbing, Spanish main style, are beginning to haunt the minds of fisher folk dwelling along that shore.

Secretary Hoover has been asked to take a hand in solving the mystery of four coasting craft which vanished completely in fine weather.

A short time ago a schooner rammed into the sand bars at the cape with all sails set and her people missing. No explanation of their disappearance has been found.

Now, with three other craft mysteriously gone, natives along the coast hint darkly of crews of piratical Russians hovering at sea, just over the sky line, to seize peaceful merchantmen.

County Repudiates Sale of $150,000 Road Bonds; to Re-Sell Entire Issue

Rock county repudiated its contract with the Merchants and Savings bank, Janesville, for the sale of $150,000 worth of highway improvement bonds, at a meeting of the finance committee Monday.

To supply cash for the Edgerton concrete road work, the county will offer for sale its six per cent bonds over the counter until July 2. Arthur M. Church was authorized to advertise the same bonds and to attempt to dispose of as many as possible locally, to assure completion of the highway extension to Indian Ford.

The contract with the Merchants and Savings bank was made "null and void" by the return of the bank's check and the contract whereby the bank was to obtain the bonds on a deferred system with certificates of deposit.

May Re-Advertise. In event the county is not successful in the sale of the bonds direct, bids will be asked for the sale of a block of bonds early in July.

Doubt was expressed if the county will sell locally.

RAIL MEN HERE FAIRIES REFUSE REFUSE WAGE CUT TO PLAY TRACTORS

Maintenance of Way Men Vote "Black Ball" Against Proposals.

First step here giving indications of a railway strike about July 1 was taken Sunday when maintenance of way employees in Janesville of both the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railways voted unanimously to refuse to accept a reduction in wages. The United States Railway Labor board recently decided that a wage cut amounting to an average of 15 cents per man shall go into effect the first of July.

There are more than 200 men represented in the maintenance of way departments here. All of these voted as one, give the "black ball" to the proposed cut.

"It is the attitude of the railroads that we resent," said one of the men voicing the opinion Monday of a number of others. "The railway heads are back to where they were before the war," he continued, "so far as their respect to ward the men. They feel that they are in power again and they are going to give the power to get all they can out of us for the least money."

"If we let them get away with a cut July 1, it will not be more than 15 days to six months before they will give us another slash," he said. "The men will be back to where they were before the war, so far as their respect to ward the men. They feel that they are in power again and they are going to give the power to get all they can out of us for the least money."

LEWIS ANNOUNCES HE WILL OPPOSE SAMUEL GOMPERS

UNITED MINE WORKERS HEAD IS RIVAL CANDIDATE.

BIG MATTERS UP

Problems Include Irish, Railroads and Relations With European Labor.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Denver.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, formally announced Monday that he was a candidate for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor, in opposition to Samuel Gompers.

"I have decided to permit my name to be submitted to the convention as a candidate for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor," was the brief announcement made by Mr. Lewis. He declined to make any further statement.

The federation opened the second week's session of its annual convention Monday.

The Irish question, the railroad problem, international relations with European trade union movement, jurisdictional disputes and other important matters were scheduled for action.

Resolutions awaited growing over the split between the two factions of Irish sympathizers was expected to be disposed of late today or Tuesday, when the resolution committee reports. The committee is understood to have decided to reject the resolution urging boycott of British-made goods and report favorably the less drastic resolution of sympathy for the Irish cause and calling for recognition of the Irish republic.

Supporters of the boycott resolution, who declare it the "official" resolution of the Irish republic, asserted they will carry the fight to the floor in an effort to overthrow the committee's report, if unfavorable.

"The International Association of Machinists has announced its determination to have the convention repudiate the action of the executive council in severing relations with the International federation of trades unions."

Rate Support Brotherhood

The request a United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way employees and railway shop laborers for reinstatement in the federation, it was learned, has the full support of all railroad organizations. This union was suspended in 1915 because of a jurisdictional dispute with the carpenters' union. The carpenters, with the building trades unions, will fight against the reinstatement.

Another Woman to Testify on Peggy's Behalf

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago.—Charles Johnson, now Mrs. Frank Gordon of Battle Creek, Mich., whom James Stanley Joyce knew before he met Peggy Hopkins Joyce, is in Chicago and will, she asserts, stand in Peggy's behalf when the hearing of Joyce's action to obtain annulment of the marriage and Peggy's petition for $100,000 a month temporary alimony and $100,000 attorney's fees is resumed Wednesday.

"We are alike and our aims are similar," said Charlotte, speaking of Peggy. "We have been wronged by the same man and I certainly will do everything in my power to see no third woman is treated as I Stanley Joyce treated Peggy and me."

A mystery woman who Joyce is alleged to have met prior to the time he met Charlotte, also is said to be coming here from California to testify in Peggy's behalf. Whether or not Peggy will be brought here from New York for questioning also will probably be decided this week.

CALL ON HARDING TO SOLVE QUESTION

House and Senate Want Him to Direct Legislation Attitude.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.

Washington, June 19.—Vice President Coolidge is a man of very few words but what he does say is heard. He has been called recently made a deep impression. For it was learned today that after a trip through the west, Mr. Coolidge came back convinced that the country was a good deal more impatient for action by congress than it was a few years ago.

Among Republicans who felt that it was of paramount importance that the tax question be disposed of with- out further delay. The new administration in Washington has not doubted the existence of a strong sentiment for tax revision but has been slow to act. The new administration in Washington has not doubted the existence of a strong sentiment for tax revision but has been slow to act.

But matters are growing serious. Republican leaders in various parts of the country are beginning to feel that there is a political dynamite in the tax question but they are even more concerned that Congress has given no made little progress toward a solution and here it is almost midsummer when the whole thing was to have been passed and out of the way.

Mr. Harding is trying to force Congress. He is loath to do anything that might seem to be dictation either in a Wilsonian or Rooseveltian sense. He would prefer that Congress function under its own leadership.

But even the leaders in Congress are not altogether sure that it is a good plan. They do not, of course, want to be forced to do things against their better judgment, they do not like to be ordered to pass a bill when there is a powerful sentiment inside the party against it, but when the whole situation is more or less in confusion and members are pressing for action on their own bills, it is helpful for the leaders to get a word of counsel from the chief executive.

So difficult has the whole situation become incidentally that some of the Republican leaders who know Mr. Harding's aversion to anything that may look like dictation to Congress are considering the wisdom of sending the steering committees of the senate and house to Mr. Harding for advice. If the initiative were constantly taken by the leaders in congress they feel their consultations will not be subject to criticism. It is not merely on the tariff and taxes that conflicts have occurred.

By far the most serious situation before congress today is the naval appropriation bill. After slashing the military appropriation and insisting that the army be cut to 350,000 men over the protests of General Pershing and Chairman Kuhn of the House military affairs committee, the naval program is similarly being chopped up. The House insists upon going further than the senate in cutting down naval expenses and while ordinarily a controversy between the senate and house over the naval budget is settled by yielding to the senate's desires this time the sentiment in the house is almost too powerful to be disposed of that way. Most of the members of the Republican and Democratic parties feel that their political lives are in danger if they do not cut down government expenditures sufficiently to permit of a substantial reduction in the tax rate.

RAY OF SUNLIGHT STARTLES MINERS

Sombreret, Zacatecas, Mexico.—Miners in the La Jora shaft at Sombreret are due to be dazzled by a ray of sunlight at noon June 21. The old miners are awaiting this visit of light with some trepidation. It is only the forerunner of a series of clashes between sections of the country as well as opposing interests in the manufacturing, agricultural and banking world.

Thus far President Harding has kept out of the general run of controversies on the tariff but people on Capitol Hill believe he will soon have to take it hand and steer the ship. Mr. Harding already has made it plain that he will insist only on the tariff and tax bills this session, and that while he would like to see some measures like a new department of public welfare or a government reorganization bill put through, he realizes precedence must be given the tariff and tax bills.

IT WAS

200 AT FIELD DAY IN TOWN OF UNION

Line and Phosphorous Demonstrations Seen by Large Crowd.

Two hundred farmers witnessed the lime and phosphorous demonstration on the farm of Theodore Wolf, Union township, Sunday afternoon.

Prof. Griff Richards spoke on the use of lime and acid phosphate. He brought out that soil is being constantly depleted in these two elements and that if an extra large crop is grown, more of the elements are taken out than if a poor crop is grown.

After the talk the crowd adjourned to the alfalfa field nearby, where Mr. Wolf had applied lime and acid phosphate. A square rod of the alfalfa had been cut and this was weighed by the farmers. It was found that the plot to which lime and acid phosphate had been applied produced 67 pounds of green alfalfa, while the square rod on the lime plot produced 41 pounds.

Mr. Wolf was unable to get a stand of alfalfa on this field until he had applied four tons of lime. As his lime was depleted in phosphorous, the lime, while giving an excellent stand, was unable to supply the phosphorous necessary for a big crop of alfalfa.

After seeing the demonstration on Mr. Wolf's farm, the crowd drove to the farm of Orris Steel, where they inspected Mr. Steel's demonstration of lime on a sweet clover field. By applying four tons of ground limestone to an acre, Mr. Steel got a fine stand of sweet clover. Where he did not apply limestone, the ground was bare.

Mr. Steel also had a demonstration on using commercial fertilizer with corn. The field was treated with an application of 80 pounds per acre of acid phosphate and potassium this spring, and a difference of four inches was noticed in the growth.

Time Producers Growth.

The farm of W. G. Miles was visited and his demonstration on the use of lime on sweet clover was inspected. Mr. Miles applied two tons of lime to his field and got a good stand. Where he did not apply lime the ground was bare.

Mr. Miles recently purchased a run-down farm, but with his knowledge of lime and by applying lime and acid phosphate, he expects to make his new farm produce as much as any farm in the town of Union.

Prof. L. K. Hatch, assistant director of extension of the college of Agriculture, attended. He urged all the farmers to attend the college field day June 28.

COUNTY REFUDIATES $500,000 BOND SALE

could obtain any outside bids. For various reasons outside bond houses and banks are "strictly off" Rock county bonds because of previous treatment in bidding on the bonds. Even though the bonds are one of the best buys in the financial market.

"We are not going to get outside bids and we might as well realize it," admitted the committee.

"It is declared by the bank representatives that Rock county bonds would not be 'enthusiastic' on taking the bonds, paying cash, and then taking a chance on selling them without a profit. The banks evidently have a little rub with the county over the failure of distributing the county's money around instead of giving the funds to the Bank of Southern Wisconsin on their high interest bid.

"The banks will not push these bonds and you cannot blame them," declared E. J. Hauserman.

Cash Is Needed
"Well, anyway, we want money enough to build that road to Indian Ford and we can let the contract for the rest of the highway go over until next year," said Simon Smith, chairman of the committee.

Although the attorney general side-stepped making a decision whether the county was paying more than six percent under the repudiated contract, the members of the committee were dubious over assertions that the bid was within the statute.

"I believe we can sell enough over the counter," said Treasurer Church.

This action was decided upon when it was evident that none of the county officers were willing to take a chance and back the opinion of the attorney general, even with security against personal losses.

City Bonds O. K.
According to City Attorney Roger Cunningham there is no question of the legality of the Janesville high school bonds.

"During the time the city was engaged in preparing the bond issue we obtained opinions of the best bond attorneys in Chicago, who approved of every action taken by the city," said the city attorney. "The city can go into Milwaukee and obtain every cent in cash from those bonds if so desired. I am confident that there is nothing in the opinion given the county which will affect the city of Janesville."

Officers Are Liable
Under the opinion of Attorney General William J. Morgan the county treasurer, Arthur M. Church and county board members who took part in the transaction of the contract "would be personally liable for any damages which the county should suffer as the result of the transaction."

The attorney general holds that bonds must be sold "under such terms as an ordinary county officer is able to know whether he is within or without the statute. As to whether or what angle the subject is considered, the conclusion seems inevitable that the statute does not contemplate a sale of bonds for credit."

A DAY'S RECIPES

Duck a la Martin.—Prepare a large cupful of brown sauce and season highly with onion juice, celery salt, paprika, kitchen bouquet and Worcestershire sauce. Cook over a fire until well thickened, add a cupful and a half of sliced cooked duck, three tablespoons of cooked green peas and a pinch of poultry seasoning. Cook until the duck is heated through, then stir in the sliced pineapple egg-cooked for a moment or two longer and serve immediately.

Orange Meringues.—Separate four egg yolks from the whites. Beat the yolks in a bowl with a spoon. Make a syrup of half a cup of mixed water and orange juice, the juice from half a lemon, two cups of granulated sugar and half a cup of any canned fruit juice. Simmer for five minutes, add the oranges, cover and cook. Arrange the orange sections on cake slices, moisten the cake with a little of the syrup and cover with meringue made from the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs, two tablespoons of sugar and a very little of the syrup. Set in a slow oven for the meringue to brown over. Serve cold.

BIRTHDAY HINTS

For Children's Parties.—Pleasing favors and table decorations for a birthday party may be simply attained by using animal crackers to ordinary favors. To do this, melt a little sugar by heating it without water, dip the animals' feet in it and stand it on the cracker. The sugar hardens almost at once. One must work quickly, for the sugar must not burn or harden unused. The realistic results always delight the little ones, especially when a few mules stand in a row and stand on their front legs or a group are put upon one cracker in comical fashion. Unfancy Candle Holders for a birthday cake are made of maraschino cherries.

SUGGESTIONS

For a Round Table.—For a round table it is better to choose a cloth than a circular cloth with a circular design, the latter almost invariably stretch in laundering.

On Furniture.—The leather on furniture should be rubbed over occasionally with a cloth slightly dampened with oil or with a good leather polish.

An Easily Made Moleproof Bag.—Buy cretonne or any other close-weave material, paper the wrong side with several thicknesses of newspapers, using a good grade of paste, and stitch firmly. Then top and bottom through. This bag will be found entirely moleproof, as printer's ink is dead to moths.

To Clean Bed Tickings without removing spread on it. Make a paste made of soft soap and starch. When dry scrape off with a dull knife and brush clean with a little stiff broom. Then wipe off with a damp (not wet) sponge.

Birge Praises Influence of State University in Baccalaureate Address

(By Associated Press.)
Madison.—The University of Wisconsin was described as a great public institution, reaching out into every community in Wisconsin as part of the life of the state, by President B. A. Birge in his baccalaureate address Sunday before the 900 members of the 1921 graduating class. The president spoke at "The Pioneer Spirit in Education."

As part of the educational system evolved under the spirit of the frontier, the university "is carrying out the purpose of the state which produced it—democracy, freedom, mobility of society, equality of opportunity—all of which were fundamental in the minds of those who adopted the state university a half century ago, and for whom the university has done its work," President Birge declared.

Life Felt Everywhere.
"Fifty years ago a university was something which could be ignored, something of whose existence the great public could be unconscious," the president said, adding that "now its life is felt in every part of the state. Then the university was a luxury, of doubtful usefulness, necessary indeed for a few citizens, but an institution rather than one side of the common life than part of it."

"Today the university actions are praised or condemned, the exercises are adequate or inadequate, or ill done or well done," President Birge continued. "The university is criticized and advised; it is commended and counseled; it is blamed as extravagant; all of this means that the university is part of the common life of the common consciousness and therefore subject to the common judgment of the state unexampled in the past. It means that it has assumed the care of the functions for the state whose performance is not a matter of indifference but whose center for good or ill into the public consciousness."

History Is Traced.
Tracing the history of the university from its beginning, President Birge said that "in 1825 when nearly a score of years had passed since its foundation, it was still so small that no one could have dreamed of its future. It was a tiny seedling, but it was a seedling of a great state."

"When, in the later '70s, a decade after the reorganization of the university, it abandoned its preparatory courses, there were only four high schools and two academies in Wisconsin which could have been accredited as giving adequate preparatory courses. A little later, in 1880, the population of the state was substantially one-half as great as it is today, but again only four high schools—Madison, Beloit, Milwaukee, and Evansville—were accredited."

"A school system, in the sense that it exists today, has been the development of the last 40 years, and its development has ended the last century from the day that Professor Sterling began to teach a preparatory class in 1848."

Readjustment Problem.
"The adjustment of educational machinery to post-war conditions has been the chief issue and during the past months has come to the front in states and legislatures."

"The later and wider adjustments of four state institutions have had to be made in the face of the business reaction whose extent and duration none can foresee though many prophesies. These months have been critical ones for the university, and critical in a sense in which the term can be applied to few periods."

"For the question before the states has not been like those which come of them biennially. It has dealt with the placing of the state university in a position to meet the problems of a new age, of an age which looks to special training as no previous age has done, an age when a special training is sought by unprecedented numbers and when its cost is unprecedentedly high."

President Birge told the graduating class that $20,000,000 of the operating expenses of the four universities surrounding Wisconsin and into the University of Wisconsin during the next two years, in addition to $15,000,000 for buildings and equipment. The seven institutions of these five states will probably contain nearly 50,000 college students next fall, he said, and the education of these students will be a part of the work they carry on.

See Wide Influence.
"The state asked its university not only to act as a crown of its system, but it calls on it for influences which shall modify every part of the system below its own level, and which shall touch life at every grade," he said. "Hence there have arisen many of the tasks which our critics think truly enough are not of 'university grade' as they use the term."

'THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE'

By Marion Rubincam

CHAPTER LXIII.
LETTERS.

Ruth and Langley spent several afternoons going over the fields beyond the river. The more he talked about the more Langley became impressed with the possibilities of Ruth's idea. "Of course it isn't original," she said, when he praised her. "The idea of the factory playground wasn't original either. I had been reading about such things in magazines. And the idea of model workman's cottages has been tried before. England has done it. We have been doing it here."

"It doesn't matter whether you originated the idea or not; you, of all people in this sleepy town, had the sense to apply it. What good is an idea if it isn't applied?" "None," I suppose," Ruth answered. "The river is deep enough to float coal barges from the mines above here. That means cheap fuel," Langley speculated. "I say, Ruth, I'll borrow a horse and we'll drive around here until we know the country for a mile or two. There's plenty of raw material here that could be used."

One day he came to her with a broad grin on his face. "I'm settling down here in Markettown, Ruth. You may be burdened with me as a neighbor for the rest of your life. Are you staying? I'm awfully glad." Impulsively she held out her hand, and they shook. There was no more room for argument. It was a friendly and casual as though two men had shaken hands.

"My old factory wants me back," he explained. "It's a good thing more reorganizing. It's to keep them up to their present efficient standard. They're building the new factory this spring, and they'll double their output. That means they'll have to import labor," Ruth remarked. "And that means these vacant Mill End houses will be rented. I think I'll have Mr. Riley take them up and repave them; there's no reason why we can't have them to rent."

"It seems to me you run Riley's business for him." "But after all it isn't much work. And he's already so rich he doesn't mind whether the place pays or not. The office is a sort of toy with him; if he didn't have it he would have to admit he looked and that would make him lose his self-respect." The man laughed again. "Well, they've given me a good place there—not quite as much money as I get going from place to place, but I think I'll take it just the same. If they follow out some ideas of mine they'll have to build a third factory in less than a year, and they might as well be the ones to start to develop our new factory town."

So, working and planning together, the two spent a summer of hard work. Langley often came to the big old-fashioned house and talked with Mr. O'Neil—who was better now the warm weather had come, and able to move to a couch on the porch. The children's playgrounds had become a reality; the summer park was a fact, and twice a week there was a band concert there, at which the town assembled.

Ruth had become an important figure in Markettown. There was more social life, too. The Town Club, which she had formed, was a permanent and prosperous organization. Some of the members spent much time at the country club, the cheap farmhouse purchased near the city limits. One of the members was teaching Ruth how to play golf.

Ruth and Langley, with the Civic Committee, were trying to pass a bill that would make the city politicians take in the waste fields and other inducements for factories to come. But this work was slow, and the details were often difficult to work out.

One day, coming in from her office, Ruth found a letter with a New York postmark on it. It was in Myra's hand writing. Ruth had doped the Weeds. Somehow she could not see them, she could not listen to gentle Mrs. Weed rambling on about Myra and her new home and her new duties, without feeling so depressed that she was almost ill for days. So, as tactfully as she could she broke away from the Weeds and the "Weeds" circle of friend, and little by little she had lost all track of Myra herself. The letter sent a little shiver through her, and she hesitated to open it. Why should this come back to her now? Hadn't she built up her own life again on the wreck of that old one? Why should Myra try to come into her thoughts now—now when her new work and her new pleasures were making her forget?

Not she opened the letter. "So I told such friends," Myra wrote. "So I told Tim last night I was going to write to you and here I am. Mother says she hardly sees you any more, you're so busy with clubs and civic societies and such. I always knew you would do something grand, I told Tim that."

"I haven't much exciting to tell you. I see Gaby sometimes, but not so much lately. I'm going to have a baby, you know, and it keeps me so close to me. And we have been living way uptown because it's cheaper, and we want to save a little. Babies cost a lot. I'm feeling fine—"

Hints on How to Make Extra Money

Mrs. Bernard J. Duffy, 417 North Pine street, ran a small ad last week, offering a sewing machine for sale. She told the Gazette the third person who inquired bought it. The cost of the ad was small.

Don't you want a little extra money for some reason or another? If you do then Gazette WANT Ads offer unlimited opportunities for you to make it. Read Want Ads and find the one that is your opportunity.

All Sold Out!

Here is a chance for someone to make some money. Right now bulbs, plants and seeds are very much in demand.

FOR SALE—Early and late cabbage plants, early tomato plants, also cut tulips. Call H. S. Sewell, Rte. 1, Milwaukee Ave. R. C. phone 403 300.

Mr. Sewell ordered the above ad to run in the Gazette six times. However, it only ran three or four times when he ordered it out as he had sold all of the bulbs and other plants offered.

"I sold about 10,000 of each kind," he said.

This little instance is to call attention to the fact that people are buying things for the garden. If you have any of the mentioned articles for sale it is time to advertise them. Call 77 on your phone.

Rents Garage

"Garage for rent. 220 Oakland avenue."

Not a very large ad, but it found a tenant for the garage. That was all that was necessary. But suppose Mr. Landlord had started to look for a tenant personally or even by telephone. How long would it have taken him? He used Gazette Classifieds and several thousand people knew that he had a garage for rent within a very few hours.

You can get the same results. For regardless of what you may want, a classified ad is the surest and quickest way to get it. Try one tomorrow. They get results.

75 After Home!

About two weeks ago the Terry Realty Co. advertised a small home for rent. The first night this ad ran Mr. Terry said people kept him so busy answering the telephones he could not read the Gazette. He said without a doubt he had 75 inquiries.

That is, sure proof, that people do read and use Classified ads. Classifieds are used by over 1000 people every week.

One Day Only.

FOR SALE—One 6x12 Congo rug, one 3 burner oil stove and oven, one kitchen cabinet, one folding bath tub. Call daytimes at 622 Cornelia. Bell 1077.

The above ad ran in the Gazette Wednesday night and early Thursday morning the woman asked to have the ad stopped as she had sold all of the things advertised. Not only did she sell them but there were 14 or more other inquiries.

If some of the people who were disappointed in answering the above ad will use a Wanted to Buy ad they can be sure of obtaining the things they want.

These Are a Few of the Results Accomplished Through Gazette Want Ads.

There are many more that are equally as good. The Gazette has made it very easy for you to use want ads. You may either call 77 on either telephone or leave your ad with any of the listed agents.
